

Questions from the legal readings:

1. What do you do as a teacher if the district policies on grading or discipline seem “wrong” or “off”? What sort of input do teachers have in establishing policy? (And who writes it in the first place?)
2. Can I be held liable for teaching “incorrect” information? For example. teaching evolution in a district where people don’t believe it ever happened, or telling students why you don’t do the flag salute? (The part in the “Legal Duties and Responsibilities” section about not being able to teach in the State again if you were determined to be unpatriotic sounded a bit scary...)